What: A Sentence or two describing the work and findings: Momentum Strategy and Research gives current descriptions of the alternative education campuses, AECs, across the United States. "This report outlines the best available assessment of the number and types of alternative education campuses (AECs) to date."

How: Brief description of methodology, maybe one sentence or just some key terms like quantitative, policy research, etc.: The researchers describe their methodology as a review of state departments of education documents, a search of the National Center for Education Statistics' school database and cross-referencing the two.

A rationale sentence about why this an important-valuable work: Every alternative education advocate and researcher should be aware of this work. It provides the latest research summary about AECs to use when preparing informed position statements at the state level or when conducting a review of research on alternative education.
