

Dr. Sean Holland

Dr. Sean Holland is a national keynote speaker and successful entrepreneur. He was appointed as an Ambassador to the highest international body, the United Nations (U.N.) Economic and Social Council. Over the past 20 years, Dr. Sean has helped Fortune 500 companies such as Proctor & Gamble and CSX Transportation align to and achieve their ambitions and goals. He has been awarded numerous prestigious awards and honors through the display of outstanding customer centric service, his amazing intellect as well as his uncanny ability to “wow and surprise” his audience through insightful thought and leadership.

Retiring from the corporate world, Dr. Sean transitioned into empowering and transforming hundreds of students to both develop and deploy their purpose through a student leadership organization. This student organization exists on a myriad of well-known colleges and universities. Students who participated in this leadership experience have gone on to serve and impact numerous societal and cultural domains throughout the world. Currently, Dr. Sean is stepping into his greatest passion which is serving, speaking, and empowering the next generation of youth, teachers, and educational leaders. He is focused on Social Emotional Learning as a Professional Development Leader for Purpose Prep. He has a beautiful family and enjoys life in Lansing, Michigan.